

Exchange Traded Fund Information

Africa ETFs precious metal Exchange Traded Funds (“ETFs”) are designed to offer ETF unit holders a secured, simple and cost-efficient way to access the precious metal market. The AfricaGold ETF provides a return equivalent to the movements in the rand gold price less the management fee.

The ETF units are continuously quoted and traded during exchange trading hours with the indicative value of the ETF unit being a function of the day’s metal entitlement and the precious metal rand spot price, eg Gold = USD 1200 and USD/ZAR exchange rate = 1/12 and metal entitlement = 0.999% then the ETF unit = ZAR 143.86.

AfricaGold ETF

AfricaGold ETFs are backed by physical gold, stored and insured in secured custodian vaults. Each gold ETF will have recourse to good delivery gold bars. The gold is segregated, individually identified and allocated in secured vaults.

Africa ETF is not allowed to introduce any outside risks into the gold ETFs including leasing of the precious metals. Each gold ETF unit has an entitlement to an amount of gold and is referred to as the metal entitlement factor (or asset allocation factor). The metal entitlement factor changes daily to reflect the ETF’s management fee.

Advantages of Africa ETFs

Convenience: An easy way to gain exposure to rand spot returns of the underlying precious metal.

Liquidity: liquid and traded intraday during exchange hours with Standard Bank providing intraday market making.

Minimal tracking error: Returns of the ETFs are equal to the rand spot return of the underlying metal priced in rand minus any applicable fees.

Physical ownership: Each ETF unit is secured by the corresponding physical metal held in a custody vault.

Transparent to value: Precious metal prices and USD/ZAR exchange rate is published daily in major newspapers, TV and other news sources.

Segregated: The physical metal is stored in secure vaults and each ETF is guaranteed and has security over specific metal held by the custodian.

Risks of ETFs

ETFs are non-principal protected investments, therefore an investor's capital will be at risk.

Prices of precious metals are generally more volatile than prices of other asset classes.

Investments in ETFs securities will not accrue any interest and performance is subject to the deduction of the management fee.

The value of an investment in ETF units may go down or up depending on the spot price of the precious metal and/or the change in the USD/ZAR exchange rate. Past performance is not a good indicator of future performance.

Investing in ETF units will not make an investor the owner of the relevant metal.

Investors should refer to the section entitled "Risk Factors" in the relevant prospectus for further details of these and other risks associated with an investment in the securities offered by the Issuer.
